1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer, mobile or other device when you visit a website. We use cookies and similar technologies to deliver, measure and improve our services. Cookies are not used to collect personal information. To learn more about cookies, please visit this website.

2. Use of cookies

We use several types of cookies on our website, including: necessary cookies, statistical cookies, and advertising cookies.

Each type of cookie performs its own function.

Necessary cookies: these cookies allow the Arbitrage Scanner website to function and use its basic features.

Statistical cookies: these cookies collect information about your online activity, including behavioral data and metrics for interacting with content. Data collection is anonymous and done in an aggregated form. These cookies are used for analytics, research, and statistical calculations (based on aggregated information). They also allow us to recognize and count the number of visitors to our website, see how visitors move around the website when using it, and record which content is most interesting to visitors.

Advertising cookies: these are files that third-party companies use to display ads that match your interests. They also help limit the number of times an ad is displayed and analyze the effectiveness of advertising campaigns. They remember how you visit the site from your device and help understand your purchasing behavior, which allows us to improve the site by displaying ads and offers that may interest you.

3. Managing cookies

You can block cookies by activating settings in your browser that allow you to opt-out of using all or some cookies. However, if you use browser settings to block all cookies (including necessary cookies), access to the website or its individual pages may be restricted or improperly displayed.

4. Changes to the Cookie Policy

Arbitrage Scanner reserves the right to make changes to the Cookie Policy at any time and for any reason. By agreeing to the Arbitrage Scanner website's privacy policy, you waive the right to receive personalized notification of changes to the Cookie Policy.

We recommend periodically reviewing this Cookie Policy to stay informed of any changes. By continuing to use the website after the revised Cookie Policy has been posted, you agree to the changes.
